

Whoever loves, knows God

"Whoever does not love, does not know God, for God is love" (1Jn 4:8).

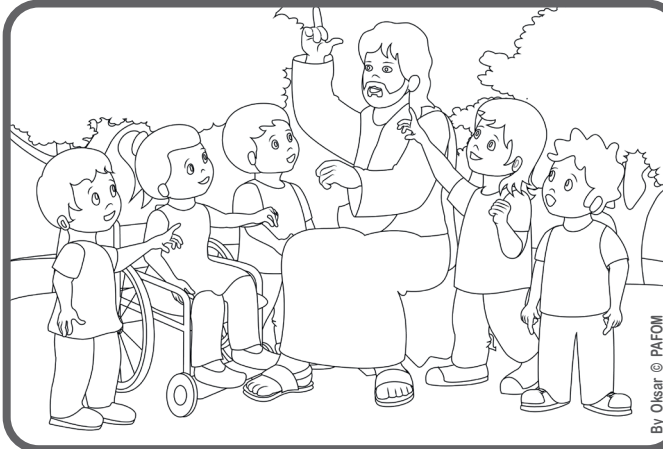

"Whoever does not love, does not know God, for God is love" (1Jn 4:8).

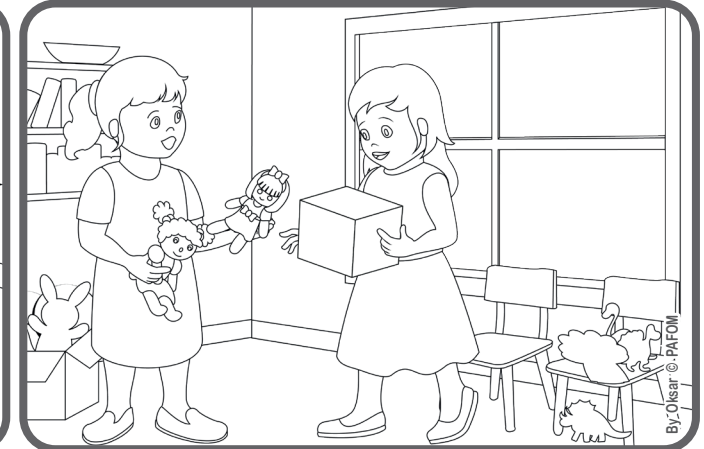

focolare
movement

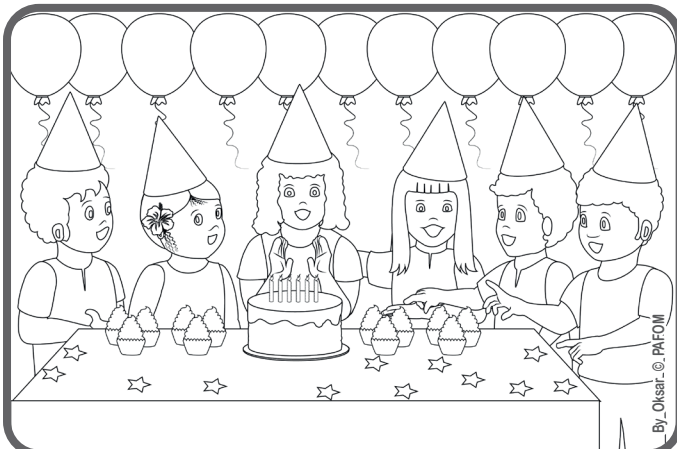

Have you ever been a little jealous because your friend has something you don't have? Or do you envy your brother or sister? And perhaps you don't always want to share the nice things you have?

Jesus helps us because he often speaks about the love of God, his Father. He and his father love one another in a very special way and Jesus wants to share this love with all of us. In fact, he calls us his "friends."

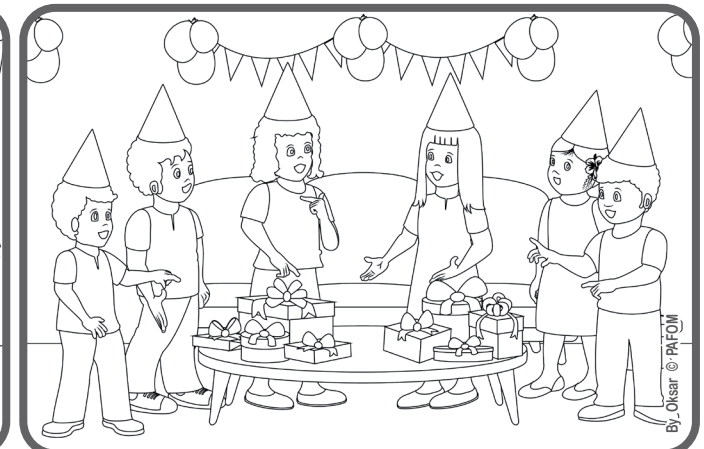

He even gave us the secret to know God, who is his Father but also our Father. The secret is to love! Rolling the "cube of love" can give us ways to love every day, just like God loves us.

Maria from Brazil wrote: At my birthday party, one of my friends came and it was her birthday too! When it came time to cut the cake, I asked my mom to sing "Happy Birthday" to her first and then to me.

My friend certainly didn't expect that! At the end of the party, when I saw my gifts, I realized I had many of them, but she had none. I immediately decided to share my gifts with her so as to love her.

I put all the presents on the table in the living room and divided them evenly – half for her and half for me. When I gave them to her, my friend was really surprised and very happy. And I was happy too that she felt our love!