

Let's bring peace everywhere

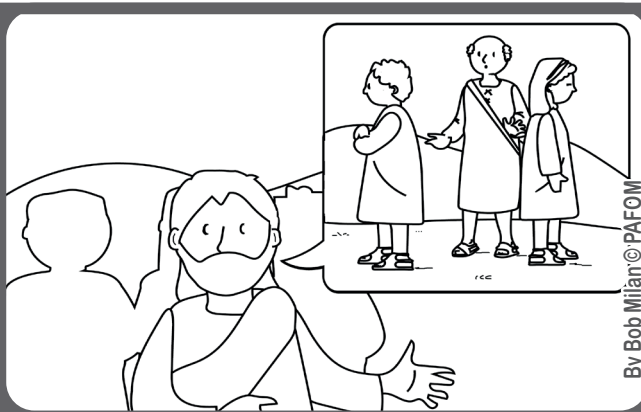

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called children of God." (Mt 5:9)

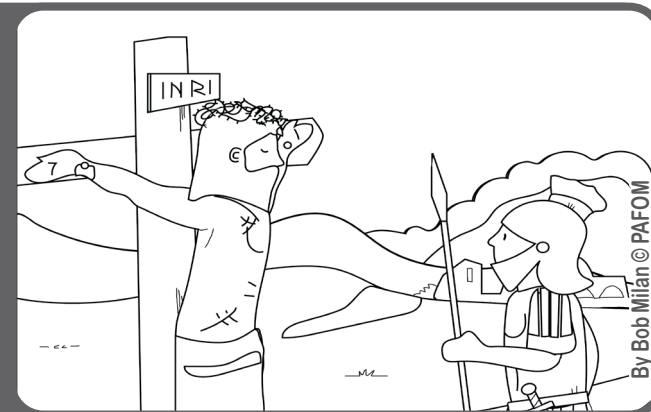

focolare
movement

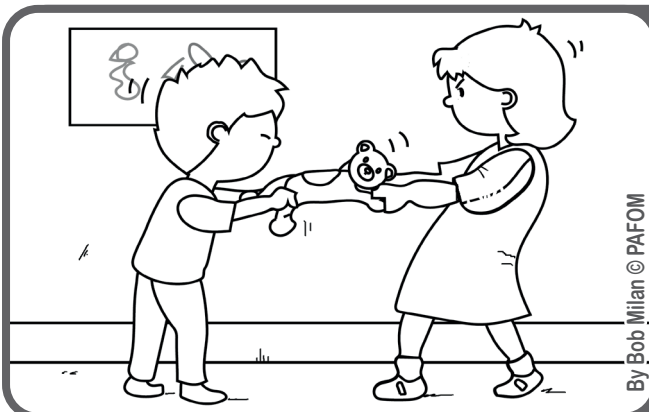

Jesus went up on a mountain and sat down. He told the people about the "beatitudes," listing all those who are truly "blessed" and full of joy.

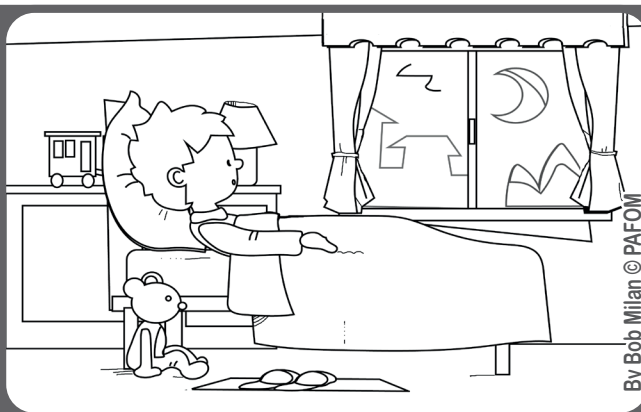

He also talked about those who bring peace. They are people who use their mind, heart and strength to overcome the selfishness that keeps people apart.

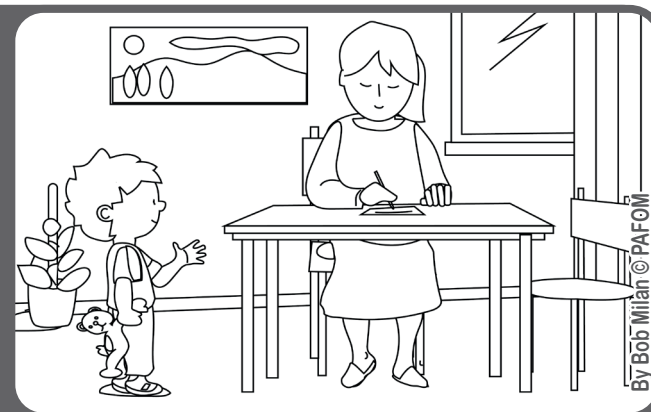

Jesus didn't only talk about it, but he even gave his life so that people on earth would live as brothers and sister. If we bring peace everywhere, we will be like him.

Experience of Paolo from Argentina: One day I had a fight with my older sister.

That night in bed I thought about our fight and I couldn't fall asleep. I wanted to tell her I was sorry, but I don't know how to write yet. So I got an idea.

The next morning I asked my mom to write it for me. I told her to write: "Please forgive me and I forgive you too. I love you!"